

Please protect satellite radio's right to broadcast important traffic and weather information to its listeners. It is very important for travelers on the road to have access to real-time traffic and weather information without being subjected to the offensive and childish antics of radio personalities that seems to make up the lion's share of weekday morning radio programming. If consumers are willing to pay extra money for this service, that indicates a market need that should not be restricted by the government acting on behalf of the commercial communications behemoths.
